ROGERS SUGAR ANNOUNCES EXTENSION OF COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT AT TABER REFINERY

Montréal, Canada, June 26, 2026 – Rogers Sugar Inc. (the “Company” or “Rogers Sugar”) (TSX: RSI) today announced that the “United Food and Commercial Workers Union” representing the employees at its Taber sugar beet refinery has ratified the extension of its current collective agreement to March 2032.

The Taber refinery employs about 120 unionized workers. Over the past few months, the Company and the union have met on several occasions with the objective of extending the current collective agreement signed in 2022 and scheduled to expire in March 2027.

“The extension of the term of the current collective agreement to March 2032 shows the commitment both parties are making to the sugar beet industry in Alberta”, said Mike Walton, President and Chief Executive Officer of Rogers Sugar. “We are committed to our operations in Alberta, as the extension of the collective agreement of the Taber sugar beet refinery follows the recent long-term supply agreement we signed with the Alberta Sugar Beet Growers. These agreements will anchor our continued commitment to our customers in Western Canada strengthening our position as a leading supplier to the Canadian food industry.”
